Experience

Producer

I started cutting my teeth at producing while working as a cinematographer, helping directors I worked with flush out the creative briefs for the project all the while assisting with the physical logistics of putting the project together. Since then I've fulfilled many areas of producing, line producer, associate producer, production manager and so on.

Director

I've spent almost a decade directing commercials, short films, and episodic/tv content. I enjoy taking an idea from paper to screen and orchestrating the talent and crew in order to bring out their best skills.

Writer

As a producer/director it is imperative to be able to hone in writing skills in order to convey your idea more clearly and creatively. I started writing while producing content for Ramsey Solutions and have expanded my skills for branded and original content.

Cinematographer

I started my film and video career as a cinematographer, first shooting music videos and then onto short films and feature length documentaries. Although not as much any more, my experience as a cinematographer has helped my greatly in communicating the vision for a project to clients and crew which, in turn, creates a more cohesive experience.

Want to know more?

With almost three decades of experience in the entertainment industry, I've gained a unique insight into the world of art and creativity. As a signed musician, I learned the value of self-sufficiency and the power of a strong work ethic. After a decade of making music, I embarked on a new journey, dabbling in web and print design and creating stunning websites and album covers for fellow artists. And then, I picked up a camera and something sparked in me - I discovered my true passion for capturing moments and stories through a lens. From that moment on, I dedicated myself to becoming a master in the art of motion pictures, driven by a desire to share a vision of possibilities.
